5	I would like to see a stop to any PTA activities which sell single use or junk use plastics like bonfire and Xmas glow toys. I would also like to see a percentage of the money raised donated to local charities	1/19/2023 7:12 PM

10	The raffle tickets were too expensive. The school community is varied and families with varying budgets should have had the opportunity to purchase a ticket at a reasonable price. Similarly, the fayre seemed very expensive.	1/19/2023 6:35 PM

15	It looks like there are some great ideas in this survey and I think they do a great job of not only raising funds but bringing the parent community together.	1/17/2023 12:47 PM
16	It would be brilliant if the PTA committed to giving a proportion of funds raised to a local partners school/charity. It is INCREDIBLE the amount that is raised over the course of the year (and full credit to PTA) but as a wealthy school in a wealthy area, we are in a really privileged position and supporting a school in a deprived area or a local food bank but would be brilliant on so many levels (including teaching the children about charity and sharing and supporting others when you can). Only other comment would be to consider sustainability/environment with the events and fundraising. It may be in hand so apologies if so but there is a lot of single use plastic and single use items (glow sale particularly) throughout the events and I wonder again if we could involve the kids in considering alternatives to some of those? No criticism here at all, you're doing an amazing job :)	1/17/2023 12:23 PM

23	Dedicated art/craft space for children not in to sports to use during break time and ad hoc classes can be run by external people e.g. Marc Makes Comics ( https://www.facebook.com/marcmakescomics/ ) who has done sessions at a school in Macclesfield.	1/16/2023 2:13 PM
24	Just benchmarking with other primary schools as to what events they offer through the PTA and how successful they are. There's so much that can be optimised through increasing	1/16/2023 2:00 PM
